PREFACE

In1988, R.R. Bowker published the first edition of Variety's Complete Home Video Directory. Utilizing the vast entertainment resource of Variety along with Bowker's database and directory development knowledge, R.R. Bowker produced the definitive "home video" database and video directory. Throughout two editions, this directory served both the video and the library industries, providing the very best, most authoritative information on home videos.

In 1989, after considerable research and in response to patron requests, Bowker began the process of expanding the scope of the Variety database beyond the limitations of home video, in order to better serve the ever-widening video community. While users found the Variety directory useful, they expressed interest in more information that went beyond entertainment and home video. The result was Bowker's Complete Video Directory 1990.

This edition—Bowker's Complete Video Directory 2010—retains this emphasis.

VOLUMES 1, 2, 3, & 4

Each volume is formatted the same way—complete descriptive and ordering information for each entry is in the Titles section, followed by several cross-referencing indexes in Volumes 2 and 4.

Volumes 1 and 2 include more than 71,909 Entertainment and Performance titles.

Volumes 3 and 4 feature more than 137,643 educational and special interest videos (documentaries, how-to's, certain sports titles, and other videos directed toward specialized audiences) and educational programs.

THE INDEXES—VOLUMES 1 & 2

The Awards Index located in the prefatory section lists major film and television industry awards by year. The Genre Index in Volume 2 covers 364 entertainment genres, of which 15 are related to Hollywood movies; in addition, there are foreign films (36 sections), animated features and silents. Other subjects include sports events (in 22 categories), television series and variety shows, children's programs, concert and music videos, and more. A complete list of all genre headings precedes the main Genre Index; it includes page numbers for easy reference.

The Cast/Director Index is in Volume 2, where the smaller Spanish Language, Laser Videodisc, and Closed-Captioned indexes are also found. Volume 2 concludes with the sections that direct the user to the Manufacturer Name Index, and Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

THE INDEXES—VOLUMES 3 & 4

The Subject Index in Volume 4 encompasses a wide range of approximately 529 categories, with subjects as diverse as Acupuncture and Anthropology to Word Processing and Yoga. A full list of subject headings with page references to the main Subject Index is also included here.

The smaller program indexes cover Series, Laser Videodisks, the 8mm Format, Closed-Captioned videos, and International Standards. Volume 4 concludes with the Manufacturers and Distributors Name indexes.

TITLE SELECTION

The selection of titles for Volumes 1 and 2 was based solely on the entertainment and/or performance nature of any given program. For example, while Hollywood and foreign feature films posed no selection problems (if a feature was produced for the purpose of theatrical exhibition, it's either in Volume 1 or 2), opera and dance are included in the Entertainment volumes only if the material is a public performance of some kind; how-to, documentary, and biography titles in those arts are considered "Special Interest", and can be found in Volumes 3 and 4. Similarly, athletic highlights and events have been deemed entertainment and can be located in Volumes 1 and 2, under individual sports within the genre "Highlights and Matches," while the remainder of the thousands of sports videos are in the Education/Special Interest volumes, indexed under each sport in the Subject Index.

Children's titles also cover a wide range of interests and subjects. In keeping with the above-stated policy, however, only children's programs that are considered purely entertainment are included in Volumes 1 and 2 (movies, made-for-television programs, storybook dramatizations and the like). Special interest and educational titles for children are in Volumes 3 and 4, indexed under the specific subject in question. For example, the Volume 4 subject categories "Pets," "Hobbies," and "Music−How-To" all contain programs developed for children, as well as "Cheerleading," "Holidays," and various academic disciplines (e.g., "Language Arts," "Science"). Religious programs, too, pose some classification questions, as some of the biblical dramatizations and presentations could perhaps be perceived as Entertainment. The established policy, however, is that except for feature films with a religious basis, such as The Greatest Story Ever Told (listed under the heading Religious Drama), religion is considered Special Interest, and thus appears in Volumes 3 and 4.

ISBN AGENCY

Educational and Instructional Videos should be assigned an International Standard Book Number by the producer. All ISBNs listed in this directory have been validated by using the check digit control, ensuring accuracy. ISBNs allow order transmission and bibliographic information updating using publishing industry supported EDI formats (e.g., ONIX). Publishers not currently participating in the ISBN system may request the assignment of an ISBN Publisher Prefix from the ISBN Agency by calling 877-310-7333, faxing 908-219-0188, or through the ISBN/SAN web site at http://www.isbn.org. Please note: The ISBN prefix 0-615 is for decentralized use by the U.S. ISBN Agency and has been assigned to many publishers. It is not unique to one publisher.

SAN AGENCY

Another listing feature in Bowker's Complete Video Directory is the Standard Address Number (SAN). The SAN is a unique identification number assigned to each address of an organization in or served by the publishing industry; it facilitates communications and repetitive transactions with other members of the industry. The SAN functions in its application to activities such as purchasing, billing, shipping, receiving, paying, crediting and refunding, and can be used for any other communication or transaction between participating organizations. To obtain an application or further information on the SAN system, please visit the ISBN/SAN web site at www.isbn.org. The editors wish to extend their thanks to the manufacturers, distributors, and suppliers who provided information for Bowker's Complete Video Directory. It is our goal to provide the best, most thorough, most comprehensive directory of home and educational video available. Users' suggestions and comments about the information and format of the directory are always welcome.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

The 2010 edition of Bowker's Complete Video Directory was produced from the Books In Print database. Volumes 1 and 2 (Entertainment) contain 71,909 entries, while Volumes 3 and 4 (Education/Special Interest) cover approximately 137,643 entries. Program titles are available from approximately 8,646 manufacturers who are listed in the Manufacturer Name Index in Volumes 2 and 4, along with addresses, phone and fax numbers, e-mail and web site addresses, and other pertinent information. The Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index provides contact information for 1,304 video wholesalers and distributors. Word-by-word alphabetizing is utilized in each section of the directory. Therefore, Man of La Mancha precedes The Manchurian Candidate and On the Waterfront appears before One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest. The articles "A," "An," and "The" are ignored in alphabetizing, as are their foreign counterparts.

Volumes 1 and 2 (Entertainment) of Bowker's Complete Video Directory contain descriptive listings for feature films and other performing arts and entertainment events, all available to the home video market. Following these annotated entries in the Titles section are a total of twelve Indexes.

If the title of a specific program is known, it may be found merely by checking the Titles section. The two major indexes are the Cast/Director Index and the Genre Index. The works of a favorite performer or director that are available on home video can easily be found by inspecting the Cast/Director Index, while a review of the Genre Index can identify the programs available in any one of the 364 entertainment genres. A separate list of genre headings is included so that users may easily reference the genres in the main index. Other indexes are useful for locating titles that have particular characteristics (Spanish Language, Series, Closed-Captioned, Awards) or those that are available in another form (Laser Videodisc, 8mm, or the International Standards PAL and SECAM).

Each entry in the title index, of course, contains complete ordering information and indicates the source of the program. These sources are listed in the Manufacturer Name Index, with addresses, phone and fax numbers, and other helpful information. Companies listed after the abbreviation "Dist(s):" may be found in the Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

TITLES

All Entertainment titles–whether feature films, sporting events, children's shows, foreign films, made-for-television programs and specials, silent movies, dance and opera performances, dramatized adaptations, comedy concerts, or musical performances–that are available on videocassette for the home market are listed alphabetically. Each entry contains the following information, in the order shown, when available:

Title, subtitle, volume number or total number of cassettes, original or translated title, original source, theatrical release date, subject (or subjects), hue (black-&-white, color, or colorized), running time, series title, series volume or number, closed-captioned symbol, MPAA rating, language, dubbed/ narrated/subtitled, video release date. (NOTE: Closed captioned titles are indicated by use of the service mark CC®. This registered service mark identifies programs closed-captioned by the National Captioning Institute, used by permission.)

This information is followed by contributors (actors, producer, director, screenwriters, composers, and others).

The annotation, or program description, is the next item of information, followed by major awards earned by motion pictures and other programs.

The rest of the entry presents ordering information, including the program manufacturer or license-holder; the formats and standards available; supplementary materials; preview and rental information; the manufacturer's or distributor's suggested retail price; the UPC, ISBN-13 followed by (in parentheses) the check digit for the ISBN-10, or the Library of Congress number, and the order number. When applicable, distributor(s) are listed at the end of the entry, after the abbreviation "Dist(s):" and their related price(s). "Price not set" indicates that no retail price has yet been issued by the manufacturer or distributor.

In some cases, forthcoming titles will be listed when the release date is not yet known. All data will be included for these titles, but the phrase "Date not set" will appear instead of the video release date. In other cases, popular movies may have been available in the past and will perhaps be in the future, but are not currently in active distribution. These titles will also be included, but in place of the ordering information, the phrase "withdrawn from distribution" will appear. And for those programs that have been given a special promotional sale price for a limited time, we will include all applicable information regarding the temporary price. All prices are manufacturers' or distributors' suggested retail prices at date of publication.

All of the titles carried in Volumes 1 and 2 have Home rights; in addition, some have Public Performance rights. Entries in Volumes 3 and 4 include a notation of the rights related to each title.

Titles annotated with an asterisk (*) are new to this year's edition.

CAST/DIRECTOR INDEX

An alphabetical listing of all performers and directors is included in this index. Each name is followed by an alphabetical listing of the movies or programs featuring that person, which can then be examined in the Titles section for complete information about the program.

LIST OF GENRE HEADINGS

This new index is a brief alphabetical list of all genres available in the main Genre Index, with a specific page reference number for each.

GENRE INDEX

The Genre Index arranges all entries from the Titles section alphabetically in more than 364 categories. In addition to Hollywood and foreign feature films on video, the Genre Index also categorizes more than fifty other entertainment and performance genres, including athletic events/highlights in all the major and most of the minor sports; dance, opera, and Broadway shows in performance; a vast array of children's entertainment programming; made-for-television features, series, and specials; comedy and musical concerts; and made-for-video performances and dramatizations. Programs relevant to more than one genre are included in each applicable category. When a program in a particular genre (e.g., Musical Concerts–Jazz, Western, Highlights and Matches– Golf) is sought, check that category for titles and then look up the programs in the Titles section, for complete descriptive information.

SERIES INDEX

Responding to users' requests, this index has been developed to identify and detail the series that have been so designated by manufacturers (e.g., the MGM/UA Diamond Jubilee Collection), as well as a selection of the more popular of these feature films that are concerned with continuing characters or themes (e.g., The Thin Man, Rocky). Every title that comprises each series is listed here.

SPANISH-LANGUAGE INDEX

This index consists of a listing of those titles that were produced in Spanish-speaking countries, as well as the programs that are narrated in Spanish or have been dubbed or subtitled in the Spanish language. Complete program information about each title can be found in the Titles section.

CLOSED-CAPTIONED INDEX

Many programs on videocassette are closed-captioned for the hearing impaired by the National Captioning Institute, in both the Entertainment and the Education/Special Interest areas. The Closed-Captioned Index lists these programs alphabetically by title.

AWARDS INDEX

This index is arranged chronologically by the year in which the award was presented. It lists movies available on video that have won major international film industry awards, television programs that have won the top Emmy awards, and video programs that have been chosen as the best program of the year by the Video Software Dealers' Association (VSDA). The following awards are included:

Academy Awards:
Best Picture Best Supporting Actor
Best Director Best Supporting Actress
Best Actor Best Foreign Language Film
Best Actress Best Documentary Directors

Guild of America:
Features

Golden Globe Awards:
Best Dramatic Motion Picture
Best Musical/Comedy Motion Picture
Best Foreign Film

The titles selected as the best of the year by the following groups are also noted:

Berlin International Film Festival
British Academy Awards
Cannes International Film Festival
National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences
National Film Registry
National Society of Film Critics
New York Film Critics Circle
Venice Film Festival
Video Software Dealers' Association

MANUFACTURER NAME INDEX

All companies listed in the Title entries as the manufacturer of the video programs are listed alphabetically with complete addresses, telephone numbers, fax numbers, e-mail and web site addresses. A dagger preceding an entry and the notation "CIP" at the end of an entry both indicate that the manufacturer participates in the Cataloging in Publication Program of the Library of Congress. If applicable, a list of company's distributors appears at the end of the entry. Full information for these distributors may then be found in the Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index. The manufacturer is the original source or supplier of the program or movie; it may be the current licensee, the copyright holder, or the company whose label appears on the videocassette package. Many, but not all, of the feature films on video were produced by a major Hollywood studio, then licensed to the home video division of that studio, which is listed here as the manufacturer. All area, regional, and national distributors that have titles in Volumes 1 and 2 are included in the separate Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

Cross-references are used in this index for two purposes: (1) certain video divisions of major home entertainment companies are referenced to the parent company and (2) companies that have undergone a name change or have been acquired by another company within recent months are referenced to the new name or new owner.

WHOLESALER AND DISTRIBUTOR NAME INDEX

In addition to video wholesalers, all distributors listed in the Title Index and/or the Manufacturer Name Index may be referenced here. Companies are listed alphabetically by their abbreviated names, followed by full address, telephone and fax numbers, and e-mail and web site addresses.

Tadpole. (2002). Color. 78 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2002. Sigourney Weaver, Aaron Stanford, John Ritter, Bebe Neuwirth, Robert Iler. Directed by Gary Winick. Most 15-year-old boys are obsessed with the opposite sex, but this may be the only area in which Oscar Grubman could be called typical. An honor student at an exclusive prep school, Oscar is confident, keenly intelligent, speaks fluent French, and is well versed in the work of a number of French authors, particularly his favorite, Voltaire. Oliver seems to have gotten his fascination with French culture from his mother, who several years ago divorced his father Stanley, a college professor, and moved to Paris. Stanley has recently remarried, taking an attractive woman in her mid-forties, Eve, as his new wife. Oscar, however, senses that Eve isn't happy in their marriage; certain he can give Eve the affection that she needs, Oscar begins waging a low-key but ardent campaign to seduce his step-mother over the course of Thanksgiving weekend, despite the fact a number of Oscar's female classmates have made no secret of their attraction to him. Oliver's efforts to bed Eve attract the attention of one of her close friends, Diane, a smart and sexy chiropractor who also becomes the not-entirely-unwelcome focus of Oscar's romantic attentions. Illeana Scott (Angelina Jolie) is a special agent with the FBI who has a reputation for using offbeat methods, but also boasts a strong record as a criminal profiler. Scott is called in by a former Quantico colleague (Tcheky Karyo) to assist two Canadian police detectives, Paquette (Olivier Martinez) and Duval (Jean-Hugues Anglade), who are on the trail of a serial killer who has been doing business in and around Montreal for close to two decades. The murderer has a history of assimilating many aspects of the lives of his victims after he kills them, but there's been a witness to his most recent crime. Art gallery owner James Costa (Ethan Hawke) saw the killer during an assault, and now finds himself working as an only marginally willing decoy for Scott. As Scott and Costa follow the killer's trail, they find themselves becoming attracted to one another, which is not necessarily a comfort to Scott as she finds her quarry moving closer and closer. Taking Sides. (2001). Color. 105 mins. CC NR. Video Released 2001. Directed by Istvan Szabo. Featuring Harvey Keitel, Daniel White, R. Lee Ermey. Set in Germany in 1946, Taking Sides tells the story of the investigation of Wilhelm Furtwängler (Stellan Skarsgård), the renowned conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic and Vienna Phiulharmonic orchestras, by the American occupying army. Major Steve Arnold (Harvey Keitel) has been told by his superiors that they want Furtwängler convicted of being a willing participant in the crimes of the Hitler regime, by virtue of his supposed support for and support from the Hitler government — they haven't got the time or resources to go after every ex-Nazi, so they want Furtwängler, as the biggest cultural target they can hit. Arnold does his loud, boorish best to first humiliate and then attack the conductor, over the supposed favoritism that he was shown by Hitler, Goering, Himmler, et al. and his conducting of a concert at the 1934 Nuremberg rally and at Hitler's 53rd birthday. Arnold finds, to his eventual distress but not dissuasion, that nothing is as simple as he would like to make it. His civilian secretary, Emmi Straube (Birgit Minichmayr), a concentration camp survivor whose father was part of the German Army plot to kill Hitler, and Lt. David Wills (Moritz Bleibtreu), a German-born Jew representing the War Crimes Tribunal, keep trying to remind Arnold that life and politics in Germany only deteriorated gradually after 1933, and in ways that couldn't always be anticipated by those who were there. Germans who chose not to leave weren't necessarily casting their lot with Hitler, but with protecting what was decent or even great about Germany, including her orchestras and music. Arnold knows nothing about music and even less about Germany and her people, and won't be deterred from his goal. Wills and Straube wish to resign from working with him, until they realize that they're facing the same choice that Furtwängler faced — to leave a horrendous situation and have no way of affecting its conduct or outcome, or remain and do their best to stand up for decency and truth. In the process of doing that, they find out that Furtwängler is not only a great artist — which they knew already — but a great and brave man, who also has his flaws. The latter include an outsized ego which may have caused him to participate a little too willingly at times in the dangerous game he played, of maintaining the excellence of Germany's musical institutions while protecting them (and also many musicians) from the worst ravages of the Nazi regime, while also keeping lesser, more compliant figures from usurping his control. Team America: World Police. (2004). Color. 97 mins. CC R. (Dubbed: French). Video Released 2004. Directed by Trey Parker. Featuring Kristin Miller, Matt Stone. Team America: World Police is a tongue-in-cheek but nonetheless politically biting send-up of the CGI-laden, big-budget action movies that have taken an almost exclusive hold over mainstream box offices, particularly during the summer months. Inspired by the Thunderbirds, a popular 1960s children's series, Team America: World Police uses similarly styled, but significantly more crass, marionette puppets in lieu of computer-generated images to breath life into an elite group of adventurers known as Team America. Their mission: to travel the world, root out its terrorists, and keep evil at bay. Aside from intentionally employing all of the halimarks of standard action-adventure blockbuster formulas, from a prototypical hero to his communist arch-rival, the film also boasts the occasional musical number. The puppets were created by Norman Tempia along with Charles and Stephen Chiodo, the brothers behind the cult classic Killer Klowns from Outer Space. Paramount Pictures. DVD. $29.95; VHS.

The Temple of Doom: Fundamentalism in India. 49 mins. Made-for-Video. Video Released 2002. Produced by Pertti Peterson. This documentary focuses on the violence that erupted in the late winter of 2002 in Ayodha, India, resulting in the deaths of six hundred people. The immediate cause was that fundamentalist Hindus wanted to build a temple to the god Ram on the same spot where ten years earlier they had destroyed a Muslim mosque; at that same time they burned hundreds of homes and slaughtered most of the city's Muslims. By insisting on building the temple, the militant Hindus are playing a dangerous game with India's Muslim population, which could be the prelude to further bloodshed. Filmakers Library. DVD. $295.00.

The Terminal. (2004). Color. 128 mins. CC PG13. Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Steven Spielberg. Featuring Tom Hanks, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Diego Luna, Chi McBride, Stanley Tucci. Shot almost entirely on a two-and-a-half-story recreation of a full-size operating airport terminal, this romantic comedy from director Steven Spielberg revolves around an Eastern European man by the name of Viktor Navorski (Tom Hanks), whose plans of immigrating to New York were hastened by a violent coup in his home country. Unfortunately, Viktor finds himself on the wrong end of a nasty technicality while en route to America: His passport was issued from a country, which, during its upheaval, ceased to exist in an official capacity. Unauthorized to leave Kennedy Airport upon his arrival and unable to return home, Viktor finds himself exiled inside the terminal's international transit lounge. Though airport official Frank Dixon (Stanley Tucci) views Viktor as an annoying bureaucratic glitch, other airport employees — including a beautiful flight attendant by the name of Amelia (Catherine Zeta-Jones) — come to see him as a welcome, if unofficial, addition to their numbers. As the days stretch on into months, the terminal transforms from an intimidating atmosphere of forced assimilation into a country within itself, complete with culture, ambition, status, complex diversity, and the need for love. DreamWorks SKG. DVD. $29.99; VHS. $22.99; VHS. $22.99.

The Texas Chainsaw Massacre. (2003). Color. 95 mins. CC R. (Subtitled: Spanish). Video Released 2003. Directed by Marcus Nispel. Featuring Jessica Biel, Jonathan Tucker, Mike Vogel, Eric Balfour, John Larroquette. One of the most infamous horror films of the 1970s is revisited in this remake produced by action-spectacle maven Michael Bay. In the summer of 1973, four teenagers — Erin (Jessica Biel), Morgan (Jonathan Tucker), Kemper (Eric Balfour), and Andy (Mike Vogel) — are driving through Texas on a road trip when they pick up a hitchhiker, Pepper (Erica Leerhsen), who is on her way to Mexico to score some dope. With Pepper adding to the party atmosphere, the other four decide to join her, but as they're passing through a small town in Travis County, they see a bloody and distraught girl (Lauren German) wandering by the side of the road, and after stopping to help her, they realize she's been involved in something horribly traumatic. As the kids try to help the girl piece together the story of what happened, they find themselves drawn into the web of a murderous family of subnormal cannibals. Inspired — like the original Texas Chainsaw Massacre, Psycho, The Silence of the Lambs, and Deranged — by the crimes of Wisconsin multiple murderer Ed Gein, this remake of The Texas Chainsaw Massacre also features narration by John Larroquette, who narrated the original film (it was his first screen credit), as well as supporting performances by R. Lee Ermey, Andrew Prine, and Andrew Bryniarski. New Line Home Video. DVD. $39.95; VHS. $22.99; VHS. $22.99.

A wartime effort to entertain the troops, as those who staged the WWI musical "Yip Yip Yaphank" reunite for the WWII effort. Songs, skits & big production fun with a wartime flavor. George Murphy plays Ronald Regan's father. All in glorious Technicolor. Moviecraft, Inc. VHS. (Order #: MC-52) $24.95.

This Is the Army. (1943). Musicals (Feature Films). War (Feature Films). Color. 112 mins. George Murphy, Joan Leslie, George Tobias, Alan Hale, Ronald Reagan, Joe Louis, Kate Smith, Irving Berlin, Dolores Costello. Directed by Michael Curtiz. The plot of this lavish musical salute to the nation's fighting men of World War II is slender, but it matters not, since it's the spirited, often memorable songs that made it a classic. Numbers were drawn from Berlin's World War I musical, "Yip Yap Yaphank," & added to those from his 1942 stage version of "This Is the Army." An unquestionable morale-booster, the movie has veterans of the earlier musical working to get their sons to put on a show like theirs. Dancer & later Senator George Murphy, for example, plays the father of Ronald Reagan, then actually just seven years younger than Murphy. Budget Video. VHS. $44.95; Beta. $44.95.

Thunderbirds. (2004). Color. 95 mins. CC PG. (Dubbed: French, Spanish). Video Released 2004. Directed by Jonathan Frakes. Featuring Bill Paxton, Anthony Edwards, Ben Kingsley. Thunderbirds chronicles the intergalactic exploits of the Tracy family. Set in 2010, the world looks toward the mysterious Tracy Island when mere international security is not enough; the remote South Pacific island not only houses former astronaut and lifelong entrepreneur Jeff Tracy (Bill Paxton) and his five sons, but also serves as headquarters for the top-secret International Rescue organization. The unthinkable happens, however, when an insidious criminal mastermind known only as "The Hood" (Ben Kingsley) manages to get past the island's innumerable security measures and attempts to take over International Rescue. His goal: stealing the organization's five most advanced rescue vehicles, each of which was designed to accomplish a specific task, and using them for his own agenda. With Jeff and his four eldest sons deployed on a mission, there's only one person with any hope of stopping the takeover — Jeff's youngest son, Alan (Brady Corbet), who vows to save his family and keep the Thunderbirds alive. To End All Wars. (2001). Color. 126 mins. CC R. (Subtitled: Spanish). Video Released 2001. Directed by David L. Cunningham. Featuring Kiefer Sutherland, Ciaran McMenamin, Mark Strong, Robert Carlyle. Following Japan's surprise invasion of Singapore during the waning days of 1941, a small British battalion headed by Lieutenant Colonel McLean (James Cosmo), Major Campbell (Robert Carlyle), Captain Gordon (Ciaran McMenamin), and Lieutenant Tom Ridgen (Kiefer Sutherland) are captured and imprisoned in a camp deep in the Burmese jungle. Soon after arriving, Major Campbell starts to an uprising. Worn down by an exhausting march through the woods, brutal daily beatings, and a lack of food, the troops are in no mood for a coup and the scheme collapses. Captain Gordon copes with the camp's extreme conditions in a polar opposite manner — by forgiving his captors and seeking spiritual salvation. Soon a split occurs within the camp between those who follow Campbell's tireless efforts for physical freedom and those who follow Gordon's more transcendent pursues. Top Hat. Based on a play by Alexander Farago. Orig. Source: The Girl Who Dared. (1935). Musicals (Feature Films). Classic Films. B&W. 81 mins. (Film Classics Ser.). Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore, Helen Broderick, Donald Meek, Lucille Ball. Directed by Mark Sandrich. Choreography by Fred Astaire, Hermes Pan. Score by Irving Berlin. The plot of this fourth Astaire-Rogers pairing is the stock-in-trade fluff that aficionados of the form expect & enjoy: boy meets girl, boy is smitten; she can't stand him, which only makes him more determined. It's all just an excuse anyway for the dancing & singing numbers, which here include "Cheek to Cheek," "Top Hat, White Tie & Tails," & "Isn't This a Lovely Day to Be Caught in the Rain?" - Berlin hits all. This movie, the first to be written exclusively for Astaire & Rogers, has him in the famous dance sequence where his cane becomes a gun. Award(s): National Film Registry, 1990. Touching the Void. (2003). Color. 106 mins. CC R. (Subtitled: Spanish). Video Released 2003. Directed by Kevin MacDonald. Featuring Brendan G. Mackey, Joe Simpson, Nicholas Aaron. In 1985, two adventurous young mountaineers, Joe Simpson and Simon Yates, set off to climb the treacherous west face of the Siula Grande in the Peruvian Andes. They were experienced climbers, and climbed "Alpine-style," ascending the mountain in "one great push," without setting up ropes or base camps ahead of time. After dealing with a snowstorm and some dangerous climbing over powder formations, they reached the summit (about 21,000 feet) on the third day. The climb down proved to be far more difficult. Simpson fell and broke his leg badly. Yates decided to try to lower Simpson down the mountain, one 300-foot section of rope at a time. The climbers had run out of gas to melt snow, so they couldn't risk stopping as night came, and a violent snowstorm began. Their plodding, painful journey hit a snag when Yates inadvertently lowered Simpson over the edge of a cliff. In the storm, the men couldn't hear each other's cries, and, Yates, uncertain as to Simpson's position, and gradually sliding down the slope himself, decided to cut the rope that connected them, sending Simpson plummeting to certain death. Miraculously, Simpson survived the fall, and was faced with the prospect of getting off the mountain alone with no food, no water, and a broken leg. In Touching the Void, filmmaker Kevin MacDonald (One Day in September) tells their story, based on Simpson's book, using contemporary interviews with the two men, and a reenactment of their climb and descent, featuring Brendan Mackey as Simpson and Nicholas Aaron as Yates. MGM/UA Home Video. DVD. $29.98; VHS. $39.99.

Triumph of the Will. (1934). Documentaries (Feature Films). Foreign Films—Germany. Propaganda. B&W. 115 mins. (German, Subtitled: English). Directed by Leni Reifenstahl. The subject is the 1934 session of the Nazi Party Congress, staged annually at Nuremberg, featuring speeches by Nazi leaders, reviews of uniformed followers, & mass rallies involving thousands. Though branded a Nazi propaganda film, it is actually the film of a propaganda subject directed by a non-Nazi woman, whose appointment by Hitler for this purpose was resented by propagandists in the Nazi hierarchy. The result is a fascinating expression of one gifted individual's impression of the Hitler movement. Includes a printed translation of speeches. International Historic Films, Inc. VHS. (ISBN: 978-1-55881-142-3(7)) $24.95.

Triumph of the Will. (1934). Documentaries (Feature Films). Foreign Films—Germany. B&W. 110 mins. Directed by Leni Riefenstahl. Perhaps the greatest propaganda documentary ever filmed, the official record of the Sixth Nazi Party Congress at Nuremberg. Undoubtedly successful when shown in Nazi Germany, today it's absorbing as a psychological study of Germany & its leaders. Fascinating views of the Nazi hierarchy in action. The film portrays the National Socialist movement in such heroic images you wonder how we ever won the war. Told visually with little dialogue, but the speeches of Hess, Hitler, etc. are in German with no titles. Video Yesteryear. VHS. (Order #: 436) $24.95.

Troy. (2004). Color. 162 mins. CC R. Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Wolfgang Petersen. Featuring Brad Pitt, Orlando Bloom, Diane Kruger, Peter O'Toole, Eric Bana. Homer's sprawling tale of love and war in ancient Greece comes to the screen in all its grandeur in this epic-scale adventure. In 1193 B.C., Paris, Prince of Troy (Orlando Bloom), has fallen in love; however, the beautiful woman who has beguiled him is Helen, Queen of Sparta (Diane Kruger), who is wed to King Menelaus (Brendan Gleeson). While Helen is hardly immune to Paris' charms, this doesn't blunt Menelaus' fury when Paris steals her away from him. Menelaus' brother Agamemnon (Brian Cox), the power-hungry king of the Mycenaeans, is eager to expand his empire through Troy to the lands of the Aegean Sea, and he uses Paris' romantic slight against Menelaus as an excuse to wage an all-out war against the great walled city. Priam, King of Troy (Peter O'Toole), summons his armies, led by Prince Hector (Eric Bana), to meet the onslaught of Agamemnon's forces, but while the great city has yet to yield in a battle, Agamemnon has a formidable ally — Achilles (Brad Pitt), a mighty and seemingly unstoppable warrior whose presence could tip the scales in Agamemnon's favor. Seibei (Hiroyuki Sanada) is a mid-level samurai struggling to get by on stipend of 50 rice bales a year while working as a clerk at the clan office. While his co-workers spend their evenings sucking down sake at the local pub, Seibei, whose wife has passed away, heads straight home to care for his two young daughters and doddering mother. One day, his friend Michinojo (Mitsuru Fukikoshi) tells him that his sister, Tomoe (Rie Miyazawa), is leaving her thuggish husband and returning home. Tomoe soon starts to frequent Seibei's house, taking care of his daughters, while Seibei quietly falls in love with the attractive young lass. After defeating Tomoe's husband in a duel, armed with only a pointed stick, Seibei is asked by Michinojo if he wants to marry Tomoe. Seibei declines, too embarrassed by his poverty to accept. Later, as he prepares to perform the distasteful task of killing a fellow samurai, he learns that Tomoe is engaged to another man. Empire Pictures. $26.98.

The Twins Effect. (2003). Color. 124 mins. NR. (Dubbed: English, Miscellaneous. Subtitled: English, Miscellaneous). Video Released 2003. Directed by Dante Lam. Featuring Jackie Chan, Ekin Cheng, Gillian Chung, Charlene Choi. A powerful, age-old bloodsucker attempts to gather the blood essence that will enable him to walk in daylight — and the only thing standing between his success and the forthcoming age of darkness is a trio of skilled vampire slayers in director Dante Lam's The Twins Effect. Top agent Reeve (Ekin Cheng) works for a secret organization dedicated to ridding the world of the fanged menace, and though his razor-sharp fighting skills — not to mention and the occasional dose of vampire blood — give him an edge over your typical vampire slayer, his new partner, Gypsy (Gillian Chung), also possesses formidable skills. When Reeve learns that his younger sister Helen (Charlene Choi) is romantically linked with a sensitive, new-age vampire prince, Kazaf (Edison Chen), who possesses the final piece of the puzzle needed for the dreaded Duke Dekotes (Mickey Hardt) to overpower humankind and rule the Earth, Reeve, Gypsy, and a reluctant Helen soon jump into action. Combine their skills with that of a quick-kicking paramedic (Jackie Chan), and the human race just may stand a chance for survival after all. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. DVD. $29.32; VHS.

Two Brothers. (2004). Color. 105 mins. CC PG. (Dubbed: Spanish, French). Video Released 2004. Directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud. Featuring Jean-Claude Dreyfus, Guy Pearce. Two Brothers offers a family-friendly epic as told through the eyes of its four-legged protagonists, who, in this case, are sibling tiger cubs Koumal and Sangha. Though a life in the jungles of French colonial Indochina circa the 1920s seemed certain, the cubs are separated shortly after their birth when the notorious hunter Aidan McRory (Guy Pearce) kills their father. Koumal is whisked away to a circus, where he is cruelly beaten into submission and forced to perform tricks to earn his keep. Sangha fares better at first — he lands in the posh estate of a French government official who wants the big cat to serve as a companion for his lonely son, though a series of unforeseen circumstances ultimately finds Sangha in the hands of a man determined to turn him into an aggressive prizefighter. Understandably, neither tiger is happy with his arrangements, and both escape captivity in hopes of returning to the jungle. Unfortunately for them, the prospect of two loose tigers is hardly comforting for the locals, who quickly demand that McRory kill the cubs before they threaten the safety of the village. Once McRory finds the tigers in their natural habitat, however, he faces a crisis of conscience he hadn't thought possible. Universal Studios Home Video, Inc. DVD. $29.98; VHS. $23.98; VHS. $23.98.

Undercover Brother. (2002). Color. 85 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2002. Eddie Griffin, Chris Kattan, Aunjanue Ellis, Dave Chappelle, Denise Richards, Neil Patrick Harris. Directed by Malcolm D. Lee. Undercover Brother, he of the gold Cadillac convertible and huge Afro, uses gadgets and disguises to steal from the rich and give to the poor. His activities are discovered by the B.R.O.T.H.E.R.H.O.O.D., a spy organization devoted to subverting The Man and his henchman, Mr. Feather, who use their power over the media to demean black people and destroy racial unity. The spy organization is run by The Chief, who is constantly screaming at his subordinates. They include Sistah Girl, a beautiful martial artist, Conspiracy Brother, who sees white supremacist plots everywhere, and Smart Brother, who supplies the operatives with gadgets and information. When a popular black political figure, General Boutwell, calls a press conference, presumably to announce his presidential candidacy, and instead announces that he's opening a chain of fried chicken restaurants, the B.R.O.T.H.E.R.H.O.O.D. rightly suspects foul play, and recruits Undercover Brother to look into it. He goes undercover as an uptight buppie to work for The Man, but his cover is soon blown, and the seductive White She Devil is sent in to use her feminine wiles to destroy Undercover Brother. Underworld. (2003). Color. 121 mins. CC R. Video Released 2003. Kate Beckinsale, Scott Speedman, Michael Sheen, Shane Brolly, Bill Nighy. Directed by Len Wiseman. A young man who has pledged his life to helping others finds himself in a pitched battle between two gangs of supernatural villains in this blend of horror story and action thriller. Michael Corvin (Scott Speedman) is a medical student who is heading home after a long day of school and work when he unexpectedly finds himself in the middle of what appears to be a rumble between two well turned-out street gangs. What Michael doesn't know is he has witnessed a skirmish between two deadly underground communities, unknown to the mortal world, who are battling for supremacy — the Death Dealers, a tribe of vampires, and the Lycans, a band of werewolves. Selene (Kate Beckinsale) is a leading member of the Death Dealers who hears through the grapevine that the Lycans have plans to capture the aspiring doctor who witnessed their battle. Certain something is in the air, Selene begins following Michael around the city, and she finds herself growing emotionally attached to him. As Selene becomes more attracted to Michael, she becomes more convinced that the Lycans are planning a major attack against the Death Dealers, although vampire kingpin Kraven (Shane Brolly) is certain she's crediting the Lycans with more intelligence than they can muster. As Selene shadows Michael, she finds herself wanting to protect him, but her longing becomes a handicap when he's attacked by Lucian (Michael Sheen), the leader of the werewolf community, and the man she wants to save has now become a sworn enemy. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. DVD. $28.95; VHS.

The United States of Leland. (2002). Color. 104 mins. CC R. Video Released 2004. Directed by Matthew Ryan Hoge. Featuring Don Cheadle, Ryan Gosling, Kevin Spacey, Michelle Williams, Chris Klein. After an excruciatingly humiliating in-flight experience that culminated in a messy breakup and the untimely death of a dog, Nashawn Wade (Kevin Hart) sues the airline for all it's worth. This turns out to be a more than profitable move on his part; the lawsuit brings him a settlement in the hefty amount of 600 million dollars. Eager to prevent his experience from happening to another — and perfectly willing to reap the financial benefits of the cash cow he believes his plan to be — Nashawn decides to launch NWA, an all African American airline complete with sensuous stewardesses, an onboard dance club, and a bathroom attendant. Far be it from giving "flying the friendly skies" a new meaning, however, chaos ensues in the form of a white family with the unfortunate last name of Hunkee. The Hunkee patriarch (as played by Tom Arnold) and his antics prevent the flight from going as smoothly as intended. Paramount Pictures. DVD. $29.99; VHS. $29.99.

Upside of Anger. (2004). Color. 117 mins. CC R. Video Released 2004. Directed by Mike Binder. Featuring Kevin Costner, Keri Russell, Evan Rachel Wood, Joan Allen. Two friends wonder if there might be more between them when their lives both take a left turn in this romantic comedy. Terry (Joan Allen) is a middle-aged housewife and mother of four teenaged daughters and gets the shock of her life when her husband, without a word of warning, leaves them behind to move to Sweden with his secretary. Going through a bender of depression and alcohol, Terry finds herself commiserating with Denny (Kevin Costner), a former baseball star turned unenthusiastic radio personality who was her husband's best friend and a frequent presence at the house. With both Terry and Denny feeling down in the dumps about recent events in their lives, the two find themselves drawn to one another, and while Terry fights the notion of a new romance, her daughters — Andy (Erika Christensen), Hadley (Alicia Witt), Emily (Keri Russell), and Lavender (Evan Rachel Wood) — have different ideas.
